

Who are the members of The League of the South and what do they want of me?

We are a group of Southerners from all walks of life to include educators, ministers, engineers, farmers, church members, retirees, and a host of others. All we want you do is join with us in this struggle to preserve our Southern heritage and way of life so that our children and yours will live in a better world.

Our statement of purpose is:

"We seek to advance the cultural social economic and political well-being and independence of South Carolinians by all legal, ethical and honorable means."

Join with us today and do your part for a better and more secure future.
